Bishop's Heart

A SUCCESSFUL FATHER

If we were to make a list of great biblical fathers, we might include men like Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. We might include Solomon, who wrote many of the Proverbs for his sons. We might include Joseph, Mary's husband, who raised Jesus as his own son and provided him with a godly home. There would surely be many others who would make the list of the great dads of the Bible. However, most of us would not include a man named Noah. When we think of Noah, most of us remember his work on The Ark. We can agree that The Ark is noted as his greatest achievement. Many would question his success as a dad because of some of the failures he faced later in life.

People remember when Noah got drunk. (Gen. 9:20-21) They also remember the business involving his grandson, Canaan, and Canaan's father, Ham. (Gen. 9:22-27) But think about this: Noah's success as a father was that he saw every member of his family saved. What greater accomplishment in the life of a believer could there possibly be? Now, we look at men like Noah and say, "Well, of course he was a success, after all, he was Noah!" But did you ever stop to think that he had to get across some of the same hurdles that fathers face today? Genesis 6:1-13 shows us that Noah raised his family during a time of extreme wickedness. He raised his family during a time of extreme violence. He raised his family during a time when God and His ways were ignored. He raised his family against the backdrop of the impending judgment of God, and Noah raised his family during an exceedingly difficult time. Yet, despite all of this, Noah achieved certain milestones that identify him as a successful father. There is a word here for every man to strive to be a successful father and an honorable man by obeying God's instructions, living boldly and unapologetically to God's standard, and sharing the truth concerning God, Jesus Christ our Messiah, and salvation! Let us all strive to be the men, the women, and the people of God, worthy of honor and pleasing to God our Heavenly Father. Happy Father's Day to all fathers!

Shalom!

Encouraging Corner with CoPastor A Loving Father

“Let all that you do be done in love.” 1 Corinthians 16:14 ESV

From the age of about four, I have been known by my parents as “a fish out of water.” Even in my adulthood on any vacation or trip especially in the summer months my family knows - when I find some water I will be just fine. My dad and my mom were recreational swimmers and they taught my brother and I how to swim at an early age. One one occasion (so I was told) we were on our yearly vacations and my parents took me to a pool. As a backdrop to this story allow me to share that I went swimming quite a bit under the watchful eye of my parents and my older cousins who thought that I was their baby. This vacation was a bit different. I was a beginner swimmer yet I knew no fear. I had not learned to fear partly because my dad never let me fall, never let me slip and when I jumped in a pool he was there to catch or guide me. Even when I caught him off guard, he somehow managed to get one or both of his huge hands around me - so I was fearless. On this particular occasion, apparently I had gotten in line to dive off a very high diving board. I had gotten out of my parents sight for about ten seconds but once my mom spotted me, she alerted my dad who had just skillfully dived off of the same diving board himself. In my childlike mind, if daddy could do it so could I! There I stood, the smallest and possibly the boldest in the line with adults and older kids awaiting my turn. My dad, hearing my mother’s alarm, quickly jumped out of the pool, took my hand, picked me up, and carried me quietly out of line. I probably didn't protest too much - after after all it was my dad - my twin, and nothing he did ever bothered me much. Besides protesting was not rewarded nicely in those days. The lessons, however, for me from that experience fill my heart with gratitude even today for many reasons, two of which I will share. First, for a loving, benevolent, amazing and phenomenal God who has rescued me countless times from circumstances and situations that I stood in line to engage. He interrupted my plan and saved me from myself. Secondly, to a loving and kind omniscient Father who gave me the gift of my biological/earthly father to show me boundless love, unfathomed protection, and compassionate strength. Even as I type these words tears fall down my face as I praise God for coming and getting me out of line before I caused myself and others unimaginable distress and heartbreak. LOVE got me out just in time. As you read this article, my prayer is that you too will reflect on a time when our kind, long-suffering, unwavering Savior rescued you and got you out of a line that could have led to your destruction. With lifted hands allow me to encourage you to reflect and join me in praising God for the type of love that comes after us and lean into that tangible type of love only God has the capacity to provide.

Wishing all fathers and all men with a father’s heart the happiest blessed and OHmazing Father’s Day!

Stay Encouraged,

CoP
